I am thankful I saw your advertisement of

Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy

Before I began taking it I had heart trouble very bad. I am glad to report that I am now in very good health, after following your advice as to the use of the Heart Remedy.

Mrs. Annie Farron, Topeka, Kan.

Are you careful of your heart, and are you sure it is as strong as it should be? Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy steadies the heart action and enables it to recover its strength after exhaustion caused by over-work, worry, shock or strain.

If the first bottle fails to benefit your druggist will return your money. For sale at all drug stores.

WHITE COUNTY ACTIVE.

One Thousand Men at Work on M. to B. Highway Monday.

That White county is seriously and enthusiastically in earnest over completing its end of the Memphis to Bristol highway is without question. Had any doubting Thomas been at the scene of the work, on top of the mountain between Ravenscroft and Clifty Monday all doubt that White county would do its part would have been swept away.

More than 1,000 men were at work with hundreds of teams, and all the tools that could be accumulated in Doyle, Sparta, Clifty, Ravenscroft and intermediate points were on the line actively pushing the work. The N. C. & St. L. railroad had placed a train at the disposal of the workers for the day and had also assured them that another train will be at their service any time requested to push the work to final completion. So enthusiastic were the business men of Sparta that every merchant in town except the drug stores, closed their places of business and joined the working crews. Only two doctors remained in Sparta. All in all such an enthusiastic outpouring of citizens was never before seen for anything of a public character.

The example is a splendid one and should be copied by the people of this county and the time should not be far distant. Such energy and public spirit cannot be too highly commended and the good such things do is almost beyond calculation. Our hat is off to White county and we only hope this county will show the same energy and public spirit in road building.

ARE WE STRICTLY NEUTRAL?

Would We, as a Nation, Treat Germany as We Have Treated the Allies?

We have to ask ourselves some searching questions in all sincerity. If Germany seemed hard to deal with, and if German public opinion seemed embittered against us, was it not largely due to the fact that we were demanding that Germany observe every jot and tittle of international law, while we were submitting without complaint to an unlimited interference with neutral rights at sea on the part of Great Britain?

And at the very same time were we not ourselves violating the spirit of neutrality by greedily seeking immense profits in the business of supplying Germany's enemies with munitions of war? For better or worse, we have established our moral position.

We are identified in the most colossal way with the cause of the Allies. The official representatives of England and France who came here recently on a successful mission to secure financial credit and support with which to carry on the war, were received with ovations.

The head of that war mission sat at Washington on the bench of the Supreme Court, by the side of the Chief Justice. Lord Reading is Lord Chief Justice of England, and is in every sense worthy of the highest personal and official courtesy when he comes to America.

But we are supposed to be a neutral country; and if the president of the great supreme court of Germany that sits at Leipzig should come here to borrow money and strengthen the sinews of war for his country, he would seem to be entitled to expect the same kind of treatment that was shown to Lord Reading. Would he receive it?

It is not necessary to pursue this discussion. It is merely desirable that we should think clearly and candidly, and not deceive ourselves as to the bearings of our recent conduct whether as a government or as a business community.—From "The Progress of the World," in the American Review of Reviews.
